

As the number of total unemployed Americans decreases, 12 million Americans are still unemployed since the start of the pandemic

